Wikis and blogs [1]

Useful tools to keep you in the loop with other public libraries and to share your skills and knowledge

The public library working groups share information through wikis, blogs and other forms of social media. Through the [PLS blog][2] the State Library shares news with NSW public libraries. These tools can help you keep informed about what other libraries are doing and allow you to share your skills and expertise:

Working groups social media

These blogs and wikis can help you keep informed about what other libraries are doing, and allow you to share your skills and expertise.

Public Library Services blog - read our blog and post comments. You can keep up to date by subscribing to RSS feeds to receive the latest posts.

Public Library Services is using social media to help NSW public libraries share information with each other and us. Please take a look, follow us and use the `#nswpubliclibraries` hashtag when sharing social media so that others can join the conversation.
